A small utility to help users remove duplicate files in their Outlook profile. This utility does not attempt to modify any settings. In order to remove duplicated files, the PST file must be open in an external program. For example, if the PST file is in the drive "D:\INBOX", you can open it in notepad using the command: notepad "D:\INBOX.pst" The PST file can also be opened in the special file explorer, named "Recover files from a broken Microsoft Outlook installation". If the PST file is in the trash, you can open it in an external program for example using the command: C:\Program Files (x86)\Recover files from a broken Microsoft Outlook installation\QXT.exe "D:\Deleted Items.pst" A pop-up window will appear prompting you to enter a backup location: "D:" "C:\Temp" "Recover files from a broken Microsoft Outlook installation\D:" Once the PST file is opened in an external program you can see two folders in the file explorer. Only one of them is the original, the other is a ghost file. Using the program, you will see an additional listing of the file folders for the Duplicated files: *With the button "Right-Click" you can select the file folders to be cleaned. This will clean only the selected folder from the duplicated files.

The file folders can be selected using the mouse cursor or by pressing the Ctrl+A keys. This application is based on a combination of two programs: - QXT Explorer - Free, reliable, fast, anti-virus. - Data Recovery Wizard - Free, flexible, safe and reliable. The PST files located in the selected folders can be moved to the trash, removing the duplicated files from the file folders. The only limitations: - The application doesn't work with local folders. - You must have an external program installed on your computer to open a PST file. Greenshot - Free, easy-to-use screenshot editor. CodeTwo PST Ghostbuster The postal code input filter is for Active Directory. This utility tries to find a matching postal code, or list of postal codes based on the country where the postal codes are entered. For example, entering a country in the drop-down list will list all the possible postal codes for that country. It can also be used
